

Rio Mare

Unmistakable, sustainable tuna

When Rio Mare launched in 1967, it was truly a revolutionary product. The inspired idea of selling tuna – which up until then had sold by weight – in single-serving cans was a runaway success story that not only created a whole new product category but also opened the door to new marketing, packaging and communications strategies.

Over time, Rio Mare has expanded its range of products by diversifying its fish varieties and offering healthy and delicious products such as tuna in olive oil, specialty tuna, tuna in brine, tuna salads, pasta with tuna, salmon, mackerel and fish spreads.

Every day, Rio Mare inspires millions of people to add more fish to their diets by offering customers clear and effective information about the nutritional values of its products. At the same time, it strengthens its brand reputation by promoting its resolute commitment to sustainable development.

For Rio Mare, sustainable development is about adopting sustainable fishing practices, protecting the marine ecosystem, ensuring respect for human rights throughout the supply chain and taking action to improve ocean health. Through strategic partnerships with global NGOs such as the WWF and Oxfam, Rio Mare is changing the rules and setting the highest possible standards for the canned fish industry.

Furthermore, Rio Mare's transparent supply chain enables the brand to guarantee complete traceability for all its tuna products.

Saupiquet

A special fish experience to bring flavor to everyday life

Founded in Nantes in 1877, Saupiquet has been a leading, innovative French canned fish brand for more than 140 years, with unrivalled expertise in fish selection and preparation.

At Saupiquet, we believe that adding flavor to products is like adding flavor to life – and that it's the little touches that can make a big difference. That's why we make sure we leave our mark on all of our products, ensuring we deliver a special fish experience and add flavor to everyday life – through the simple drop of water that makes our tuna soft and tasty, the way we perfectly grill our mackerel and the clean, delicious combinations of selected ingredients in our salads.

A huge part of the signature Saupiquet approach is our commitment to sustainability on land and sea. Thanks to a robust process of information collection and monitoring, coupled with close collaboration with our suppliers, Saupiquet is able to guarantee full product traceability. Furthermore, in 2021, Saupiquet became the first company in the French market to reach 100% MSC certification for its tuna in brine.

Saupiquet offers a wide range of products and recipes, including mackerel, tuna, sardines, salads, spreads and shellfish.

Simmenthal

Synonymous with canned meat

Launched in Milan in 1923, Simmenthal has been synonymous with canned meat in Italy for almost a century.

The distinct flavor of Simmenthal canned meat is achieved through the combination of prime quality beef and vegetable gelatin, with a few drops of honey added to every can. Simmenthal's products are produced at the Aprilia production facility in Italy, where the processing stages are monitored in minute detail to ensure a high-quality finished product. Simmenthal's unique characteristics are determined by the beef itself, taken exclusively from selected cuts of red muscle, and by the gelatin, which is made from plant-based ingredients and honey. These characteristics are enshrined in a Disciplinary Regulation and verified through stringent checks and controls, partly in collaboration with the Faculty of Veterinary Medicine at the University of Milan.
